

STOP TRIDENT

The Faslane 365 year-long civil resistance to Trident has already become a powerful focus of opposition to nuclear weapons in Scotland. For the rest of this year, groups of people from all walks of life will come to the Faslane nuclear base, near Glasgow, to demonstrate and blockade for one day or more. People Power is working! Join us and make your voices heard.

Political actions of all kinds will be necessary to stop Trident. Civil resistance can make a vital difference, but to be fully effective it needs to be sustained day after day, month after month. While many groups are committing to come back, we need many more to continue the blockades until Trident is disarmed.

Tony Blair has now issued a White Paper calling for the Trident nuclear weapon system to be renewed beyond the 2050s. This will cost £20-76 billion, breach the Non-Proliferation Treaty and make us less secure. The government has not consulted as promised, but plans to push a vote through Parliament using Conservative support. Regardless of what this undemocratic process favours, People Power can stop Trident and its replacement.
